The California Gold Rush was one of the most important events in 19th-century American history. It was sparked by the discovery of gold in early 1848. The gold was found in the Sacramento Valley. Soon, thousands of people were rushing to California. They all hoped to strike it rich.

By the end of 1849, big changes had come to California. Compared with two years earlier, there were now a hundred times as many white Americans in the territory. The non-native population reached 100,000.

During the Gold Rush, $2 billion worth of gold was mined. Mining reached its peak in 1852. After that, it began to drop.

Gold Flakes Discovered At Sutter's Mill

On January 24, 1848, James Wilson Marshall found the first flakes of gold. Marshall was a carpenter from New Jersey. He spotted gold in the American River near Coloma, California. "It made my heart thump," Marshall later said. "I was certain it was gold."

Just days after Marshall's discovery, the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo was signed. The treaty ended the Mexican-American War. It gave California to the United States. Before then, the California territory belonged to Mexico.

News Of Gold Spread Fast

Word of the discovery of gold soon got out. Excitement built quickly. By mid-June of 1848, three-quarters of the men in San Francisco had gone in search of gold. By August, the number of miners had reached 4,000.

California Grew As '49ers Arrived

During 1849, people across the United States set off for California. They were known as '49ers. By the end of the year, the population of California had grown by almost 100,000. To meet the needs of the '49ers, new towns were set up all over the region. San Francisco grew rich.

At the time, California was not yet a state. The Gold Rush sped up its admission to the Union. California became the 31st state on September 9, 1850.

The Fading Gold Rush

After 1850, the surface gold in California largely disappeared. The remaining gold was buried deep underground. Still, miners continued to arrive. Most did not have much luck. A pick-ax and shovel were no longer enough. Big mining companies soon took over.

Gold mining reached its peak in 1852. In that year, $81 million in gold was pulled from the ground. After 1852, the yearly total began to drop. By 1857, it had reached $45 million a year. Yet settlers continued to arrive in California. By 1860, the state's population had reached 380,000.

DAY 2: Examine the pictures closely. What were working conditions like? Was it an easy job? Did they have proper equipment to mine with? How difficult would it have been to find gold in 1849? Write a short reflection of your thoughts after looking over the pictures provided.

SLIDE 2

Beginning: East Coast Launch

You have just read a persuasive article in the newspaper about the GOLD RUSH in California. After all, it is only 3,095 miles from Boston to San Francisco!

SLIDE 3

Flip #1

HEADS: You purchase a wagon and supplies to head west. You are 100 miles into the trip when your wagon wheel breaks down. Your trip is delayed three days because you have to unload your wagon to put on your spare wheel you brought along. You purchase an additional wheel to have as a spare in case another wheel breaks. Reloading the wagon was harder the second time.

TAILS: You purchase a wagon and supplies so you can head west. You stop at your first camp site to spend the night. YOU ARE ROBBED. All of your food items are gone! You had your money hid, so they did not take everything. You barter with people to get enough supplies to venture on.

RECORD YOUR FATE

SLIDE 4

Your journey continues.....

While on the road you team up with other families that look like they are safe to travel with. You decide it is smart to travel in a group in case something happens. You are able to travel 10 -20 miles per day depending on the type of terrain or landforms. It is time to stop and make camp.

Flip #2

HEADS: You have a wonderful time with your new traveling companions, you sing songs, and tell stories until bedtime. You feel safe and want to share some of your homemade biscuits with your new friends.

TAILS: You are impatient and want to hurry up and get to San Francisco before all the gold is gone. You sneak out of camp during the early hours of the morning to get a head start. You do not trust anyone at this point. In your hurry to leave, you realize you forgot your shovel you used to put out the fire. You are not going back even though you realize the price of a shovel in San Francisco will be 10 times more expensive.

RECORD YOUR FATE

SLIDE 6

Your journey continues.....

You have reached the Great Rocky Mountains and you are tired, your horses are exhausted, and food supplies are running low. You have to press on to get over the mountains before winter hits. What will you do?

GO TO THE NEXT SLIDE TO SEE YOUR FATE

SLIDE 7

Flip #3

HEADS: One of your children become violently ill so your trip over the mountains is delayed for one week. The gold will have to wait. You will have to make shelter and find help for your child, or your child will die.

TAILS: You are headed up the pass when you come to a rock slide on the path. You will have to spend 5 days unpacking and repacking the wagon. Each piece of the wagon will need to be hoisted up the side of the cliff over the rock slide.

RECORD YOUR FATE

SLIDE 8

Your journey continues:

You finally reached your first BOOMTOWN. You are excited to see all of the people, but people are not exactly friendly. Prices are outrageously expensive, there are rowdy people, gunshots are often fired, and people are stealing from one another. You must decide what is next for your family.

FLIP YOUR COIN NOW

GO TO THE NEXT SLIDE TO SEE YOUR FATE

SLIDE 9

Flip #4:

HEADS: You need more money because your supplies are running low. You decide to camp outside of the BOOMTOWN to keep your family safe. You work for two weeks at the blacksmith shop creating new tools for miners. You have enough money to journey on. You also received a few new tools from your boss for your hard work. The pickaxe and shovel will come in handy when you strike it rich.

TAILS: You decide to camp behind one of the buildings in the new Boomtown. After all, it should be safe with all the people around. While you are out looking for new supplies, someone comes and steals your horses. You will need to replace them or you will have to make this crazy city your new home. You spend all your money on new horses and venture on. You must strike it rich.....!

RECORD YOUR FATE

SLIDE 10

Your journey continues.....

You have finally arrived at the place where James Marshall found gold at Sutter's Mill in Coloma, California. The news of gold brought over 300,000 people from all over the world to California in search of gold. It looks like you will need to find a place to set up your claim. The sooner you are set up, the sooner you will "STRIKE IT RICH".

FLIP YOUR COIN NOW

GO TO THE NEXT SLIDE TO SEE YOUR FATE

SLIDE 11

Flip #5:

HEADS: You have a beautiful spot on the side of the mountain with a stream close by for panning. You are panning for gold when you find beautiful, luxurious gold pieces in your pan. You are careful not to make a big deal because that will alert robbers. You bag the gold and take it to town only to find out it was “FOOL’S GOLD. You are flat broke and must go back to Boston to live with your aunt.

TAILS: Your claim proved to have a healthy vein of gold in the side of the mountain. You quietly take your huge chunk of gold to the bank. “YOU STRUCK IT RICH”. You build a mansion in San Francisco and live happily ever after.
